NET Surgeries in the Gastrointestinal Tract

- Cholecystectomy: Removes the gallbladder
- Appendectomy: Removes the appendix
- Small Bowel Resection: Removes all or a portion of the small intestine along with nearby blood vessels and lymph nodes
- Endoscopic Resection: Removes small tumors from the colon, or stomach by means of an endoscope – a combination camera and cutting tool inserted up the anus or down the throat
- Gastrectomy: Removes all or a portion of the stomach
- Resection Hemicolecotomy: Removes a portion of the large intestine along with nearby blood vessels and lymph nodes
- Abdominoperineal Resection: Removes part or all of the anus, rectum, and sigmoid (lower) colon
- Hemicolectomy: Removes a portion of the large intestine along with nearby blood vessels and lymph nodes
- Gastrectomy: Removes all or a portion of the stomach

Endoscopic Resection:
Removes small tumors from the colon, or stomach by means of an endoscope – a combination camera and cutting tool inserted up the anus or down the throat.